The Chicago Daily Tribune.

VOLUME XLIV. MONDAY, JULY 14, 1884—TEN PAGES. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE CAMPAIGN.

THE CONVENTION.

THE PARTY PLATFORM.

THE SITUATION.

THE STATE TICKET.

WISCONSIN.

DEMOCRATIC.

REPUBLICAN.

GREENBACK-LABOR.

A CHICAGO COUNTY.

THE WEATHER.

AT WASHINGTON.

FARMING.

AT WASHINGTON.

Librarian Spofford Has Library to Share Their Luxury of Almost Unrivaled.

The Bible Overburdened with Congressional Documents and Copies of Speeches.

Justice in Session Prior to Reference to Senator Saggart—Extending the Free-Delivery System.

LETTER-CARRIERS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13.—[Special.]—The letter-carriers are not likely to have their petition granted through the failure of Congress to appropriate a sum of money sufficient to pay the additional expenditure for the fiscal year ensuing. The bill already carried by the senate...

...

...

The Tribune.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

MONDAY, JULY 15, 1895.

THE CARDINAL WISHES TRIBUNE.

[illegible] AND THE [illegible].

[illegible] AND THE [illegible].

[illegible] AND THE [illegible].

THE WORLD ABROAD.

Sublime Shock of the Cholera Decrept Through Europe—Yesterday's Mortality.

Sheriff for Louis Rejoct the Franchise Bill Parliament Will Be Dissolved.

Murder at Coupe Denunciation—Peace Threatening the Schmidt-Gordon Australia.

[Illegible]

[Illegible]

[Illegible]

BLAINE OR GARFIELD.

Full Text of the Eloquent Chevrolet Oration on the Issue Presented.

The Assertion of Garfield—Early Life—Military Career—In Congress.

Three Great Leaders—The Administration—Banking and Finance—The American Flag—The Tariff.

In response to many requests, THE TRIBUNE reprints the eloquent eulogy on the statesman delivered before both Houses of Congress and the high officials of the Government on Sunday, Feb. 23, 1882. The text of the unbiased portion is as follows:

Mr. President: For the second time in the history of the Government of the United States and assembled in the Hall of Representatives to listen to the eulogy of a departed President, Congress is in the shock of a sudden bereavement to which the calamities of war furnish no parallel. The funeral ceremonies of the great City which has been the theater of the most appalling tragedy in the history of the Republic, which has been the scene of the last public labors, the last words, and the last breath of the martyred President, and which will have a place in history as the birthplace, the home, and the grave of Garfield, have been completed. The sad duty has been performed by the authorities of the State of Ohio, to which Garfield was born, and which he represented in Congress and in the Senate. The mortal remains of the illustrious dead have been borne to the home which he had made beautiful by his love, and which his fame had covered with imperishable honor, and have been laid in the midst of the people whose confidence he had repeatedly received and whose affection he had never lost. The last honors have been paid by the authorities of the State of New York, in which city the greatest number of years of his manhood were passed, and which, by the suffrages of its people, he had been called to serve as the chief executive magistrate of the nation. The last sad services have been performed by the authorities of the District of Columbia, in which Garfield had established his home, and had exhibited those powers of mind and character which command the admiration of mankind. The tributes of respect, of love, and of grief have been universal and impressive. The nation, impatient to bestow honors upon the illustrious dead, could not wait for the ceremonies which have been described, but has universally engaged in paying them. Homage has been rendered in the churches of the land, in the halls of legislation, in the courts of justice, in the associations of the people, and by the touching offerings of affection by the wayside as the funeral train passed. The sea has lent its waves to waft the sorrowful tidings across the waters, and the distant nations of the earth have paid the homage of their tears to the memory of the dead President. Business has been suspended, the wheels of commerce have been stayed, and the currents of trade have been checked, while the people have given themselves up to the contemplation of the great bereavement which has befallen them. Nor is the world unmindful of the fact that the martyr President has fallen in the midst of his efforts to secure for labor its just rewards, for the poor and the unfortunate the full enjoyment of their rights, and for the weak the protection of the law. Emerging from the shades of poverty and obscurity, he has shown how high the human soul may rise above the adverse conditions of life, and how truly it is the architect of its own fortune. Rising through the gradations of business life, he had secured an honorable competence, and had developed those elements of character which fitted him for the public service. Entering political life when the conflict between freedom and slavery was impending, he met the responsibilities of the day, and was swept into the high current of the time which bore the country forward to the conflict. Volunteering in the defense of the imperiled nation, he went to the field, and served with conspicuous gallantry and ability until the end of the war. Returning to civil life, he resumed his relations to the people, and was soon called to represent them in the Congress of the United States, and for seven successive terms he was returned to the House of Representatives by the people of the district in which he lived. Elected by the Legislature of his State to the Senate of the United States, he was about to enter upon the duties of that office when he was called to the Chief Magistracy of the nation. In the midst of the high hopes which inspired the opening months of his administration, he was stricken down by the hand of violence, and after lingering for more than two months between life and death, he died, and his spirit returned to God who gave it. The memory of his illustrious life and the mystery of his untimely death will be the precious and sacred possession of his family, of his State, of the nation, and of mankind.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

IRISH-AMERICANS.

An Open Letter from a Prominent Irish-American of Iowa.

A Democrat, and President of the Local League of Council Bluffs.

Giving Why Ireland Is Justly Entitled to Receive Home Control.

NATURAL GAS.

Vast Deposits Known to Underlie Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Portions of Other States.

The Gas Compared with That of Coal—Oil Now Is Only a Temporary Gain Discovery.

LAKE HARBOR.

SCOTTDALE.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CHILI CHIPS.

THE CITY.

PERSONAL.

William S. Chaney, of New York, is at the Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker, of Hartford, Conn., are at the Palmer.

The Rev. W. D. Washburn, of Minneapolis, is at the Grand Pacific.

IN GENERAL.

The grain belts of Pennsylvania Park in the Lake Forests is to commemorate the Union of the States.

At Haverhill, Mass., last Thursday afternoon the marriage of Miss Ella S. Wilson, of this city, to Mr. S. C. Swallow, of Chicago, was solemnized by Rev. A. J. Gordon, in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends. The bride received many and costly presents, the Rev. Mr. Gordon and organist each being remembered.

"The Democratic party is solid for the Union, and the highest honor ever paid to a citizen, and the highest honor ever paid to a citizen, and the highest honor ever paid to a citizen

A TOURIST IN COLORADO.

GEN. LOGAN.

PROPOSALS.

REAL ESTATE.

WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—FEMALE.

BOARDING AND LODGING.

FINANCIAL.

LOANS & OTHER INVESTMENTS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MUSGRAVE & CO.,
BANKERS,
No. 20 Pine-st., New York.

Transact a general Banking Business, including the Purchase and Sale of STOCKS and BONDS for cash or on Margin. Interest allowed on deposits subject to check at sight.

Members New York Stock Exchange.

THE COURT RECORD.

BUSINESS.

COMPANIES.

NOW READY!
THE AUGUST NUMBER
OF
The New York Monthly Fashionbazar
CONTAINING
Snow-in-Summer; or, Alice Gabey's Secret.
AND
Debbie, the Ward of Waringham.
ILLUSTRATED WITH COLORED MYSTERY.

Tamar Indien Grillon
Constipation, Hemorrhoids, Bile, Headache, Loss of Appetite, Cerebral Congestion.

RUPTURE CURED.

DR. BENNETT'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

PARTIES FOR EUROPE

STATE LINE

Goodrich's Steamers.

Northern Michigan Line Steamers

Follow the C to
"The Fai
OF
E. J. LEHMA
Note the Bargu
SPECIAL S
E. J. LEHM
AT THE FA
COLLARS,
CUFFS, SHIRTS,
NIGHT SHIRTS
UNDERW
HOSIERY, HANDKFS,
NECKWEAR,
SUSPENDERS
WILSON B
113 & 115 State
The Great Lak
Summer Resorts of L
ASTH
HAY FE THEIR CAUSE AN Address L. A. K
Real Estate a
Morgan
EAST INDIA
H. A. HUR
WRITERS